

Fertilization Poem

I've lost my phone number
I know
I know
I know

Go ahead and break through my gelatinous veil. Many have tried and many will fail. You've already been through a dangerous road; the acids did many of your friends corrode. You want to combine your DNA with mine? Haploid to diploid, or so you pine, you so desire. We'll see which ones the most lucky. We've only this chance to fulfill our fate. Let's not put away your tired pants, come on, let's get on with it. We'll go ahead and pine after me. We'll see which ones the most lucky. We've only this chance to fulfill our fate. Let's not put away your tired pants, come on, let's get on with it.

Because you have "the" written all over you
I know
I know
I know

Do you know Karate?
Cause your body is really kicking

Are you the only one from Tennessee?
Cause Tennessee is the only one from Tennessee

They call me coffee because I grind fine

They baby are you for tired? Cause you've been running through my mind all day

Author: Maureen McHugh
Course: General Biology
Professor: Jerry Waldvogel